The FineArtDiscovery.com website provides background information on contemporary art, as well as a database of current artists with direct contact facilities.

Press release:

FineArtDiscovery.com is dedicated to the presentation of contemporary art. Participants in the BBIFA fairs, including contemporary artists and innovative galleries, will find a platform for direct and detailed presentation of their works.

The website provides extensive background information, artist biographies and direct contact facilities. Art thrives on participation and visibility, and synergies are only created through appropriate platforms. FineArtDiscovery therefore offers a constantly growing database of contemporary artists, their works and biographies.

A user-friendly navigation leads through the world of international art and culture. In addition, an artist is regularly featured in a prominent position. FineArtDiscovery.com presents refreshingly current contemporary art in the fields of painting, graphics, sculpture, photography, object art, video art and virtual works.

The aim of the platform is to promote regional and international networking between artists and art dealers, as well as with collectors and art lovers. For a personal meeting, interested parties can make an appointment for an upcoming fair or a studio visit.

FineArtDiscovery.com was created from discussions about works at BBIFA fairs. BB International Fine Arts (BBIFA) is a Swiss company that has been providing services in the field of modern and contemporary fine arts since the 1970s. These include exhibitions, art fairs, representation of artists through its own galleries, publications, catalogues and the management of cultural events. Since 1999, BBIFA has also organised its own art fairs, including Art International in Zurich. Young and established galleries as well as emerging artists present themselves here. For private and institutional collectors, these fairs are a veritable treasure trove, allowing them to buy art at their leisure.
